LITERATURE.

FRANK LESLIE'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE

The number for October overflows with good things; the contents are exceedingly varied, and afford delight and edifying reading. "The Religion of the Ancient Egyptians," by J. Newenham Hoare; "The Study of Biology at Princeton College;" "Lace-making;" "The Mount Azen Road in Switzerland;" "The Coptic of Egypt and their Church," are among the noteworthy, profusely illustrated articles. There are some admirable sketches and essays, one by the Rev. Dr. Talmage, "The Old Homestead," is replete with charming ideas. Marion Harland's serial, "A Good Fellow," is concluded, and MacDonald's "Weighed and Wanting" is continued with increasing interest. Among the numerous poems is a very beautiful one, "The South Wind," by the late Fanny Parnell, which was received by the editor on the day of her death. "The Home Pulpit" has a sermon by Dr. Talmage, "Christianity as a Delusion." There are also "Wit, Wisdom and Pathos of Childhood," "The Collection Basket," "Information for the Curious," "The Bow Unbent," etc., and an abundance of brief articles, paragraphs, etc., of great interest, full of information, and entertaining to all classes of readers.

Address Frank Leslie, publisher, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

ORIENTAL RELIGIONS. By President John Caird, University of Glasgow, and other authors. Price 15 cents. J. Fitzgerald & Co., publishers, 30 Lafayette Place, New York.

We have in the neatly printed work named above, and which forms No. 35 of the "Humboldt Library of Science," a series of profound and learned studies upon four of the great historical religions of the world, namely, Brahmanism, Buddhism, Confucianism and Zoroastrianism, or the religion of ancient Persia. These essays are written from a distinctively Christian point of view, yet everywhere the authors' purpose to do full justice to whatever is good and true in these ancient religious systems is manifest. There is not a more interesting object of study than that of the Faiths of Mankind.

THE FAST MEN OF AMERICA.

The "Fast Men of America" is a rollicking series of sketches of life on the railroad, evidently written by one who knows whereof he discourses. The humors, romances, pleasures and perils of travelling on the rail are touched with a graphic and graceful pen. It is lavishly illustrated with pictures as lively and attractive as the text itself.

Richard K. Fox, publisher, 183 William street, New York.

How He Lost His Memory.

He had asked the man in the seat behind him for a chew of fine-cut, and after stuffing half the contents of the box into his mouth, he had put the box itself into his pocket. When reminded of this he replied: "Bless me—bless me. Why, so I did! Hope you won't take offense, sir, for I had entirely forgotten it. Dear me! but I find fresh evidences every day that I am not what I used to be. I see that I am losing my memory."

"That's too bad," said the other. "How long have you been thus afflicted?"

"Exactly thirteen years!—ago to-day."

"Did some accident happen to you then?"

"Accident? Bless you, my dear sir, it was a terrible thing. I was hung by a mob."

"Is that so? I don't want to be impertinent, but I should really like to hear about it."

"Certainly—no impertinence about that, I was in Denver. My business there was to sell pianos and organs. One day I called at a house to see about the sale of a piano, and I found the lady murdered in the hall. While I was standing there, horror-struck and terrified, several parties came up, and accused me of the deed, and in ten minutes a mob had a rope around my neck. I was dragged to a tree, given two minutes to pray, and then pulled up."

"Hung by the neck?"

"Yes—a regular hangman's noose, and the end of the rope was made fast, and I was left swinging."

"Great Scott! and—and—but you didn't die?"

"I dunno," softly answered the piano man. "I date my loss of memory from the minute they began pulling on the rope. Perhaps I was cut down and resuscitated—perhaps the corpse was taken out and buried. As I told you before, my memory has sadly failed me."

The other puzzled over it, blew his nose, got red in the face, and finally blurted out:

"Say, mister, I believe you are a gigantic, consarned liar."

"Like as not—like as not!" blandly replied the piano man. "When a man's memory begins to fail, he may hit the truth or he may lie—just as it happens. Have you any good chewing tobacco with you?"

IT IS TRULY WONDERFUL

To see what improvement now exists as compared with railway travel only a few years ago. To become convinced of this, one has only to select for his route East, the popular and well known

CHICAGO & NORTHWESTERN R.R.

You are landed by the Union Pacific Railroad in the Union Depot at Council Bluffs, where stands the C & N-W. Palace Train, composed of Pullman Hotel Cars, Pullman Sleeping Cars, Elegant Day Coaches Smoking, Baggage, Postal Cars, etc. ready to convey its passengers through Iowa and Illinois, and into Chicago. Gliding smoothly along over the superb track of steel rail through thriving cities and villages, comfortably seated in this train, one scarcely discovers the high rate of speed which he is riding. Trains of this road are always on time, connections sure, and passengers seeking pleasure, comfort, safety and easy in traveling, will find the "North-Western" in excess of their expectations, and the greatest of all routes to Chicago and the East. Insist upon Ticket Agents selling you Tickets via this Road; all agents sell them. Examine your Tickets and refuse to buy if they do not read over this Road. If you wish the Best Traveling Accommodations, you will buy your Tickets by this Route. AND TAKE NO OTHER
